THE NEW, NEW PALGRAVE

SFI Science Board member Steven Durlauf (University of Wisconsin) and External Faculty member Larry Blume (Cornell University) are editing the new edition of the most influential reference work in economics, The New Palgrave Dictionary of Economics. R. H. Inglis Palgrave's original Dictionary of Political Economy first appeared in 1894-1899, and was revised in 1923-1926 by Henry Higgs. The New Palgrave Dictionary of Economics, edited by John Eatwell, Murray Milgate, and Peter Newman, was published in 1987. The massive (6 volumes, more than 5 million words) new edition covers all of economics and related fields, and is expected to appear in 2008. Durlauf and Blume headed the former Economics Program at the Santa Fe Institute from 1996 through 1998. The New Palgrave (to be published by Palgrave Macmillan) will have a decidedly Santa Fe accent, with contributions from a number of members of the SFI research community. In addition, Kenneth Arrow, one of the founders of the Economics Program, is an advisory editor for the project.

SAM BOWLES CO-EDITS NEW BOOK

SFI Professor Samuel Bowles, together with Pranab Bardhan and Michael Wallerstein, edited a book entitled Globalization and Egalitarian Redistribution, which was published by Princeton University Press.

The book demonstrates that the free flow of goods, capital, and labor has increased in inequality or volatility of labor earnings in advanced industrial societies—while constraining governments' ability to tax the winners from globalization to compensate workers for their loss.

CONSTANTINO TSALLIS TO TEACH IN SPAIN

SFI Visiting Researcher Constantino Tsallis, will present a one-week course on Nonextensive Statistical Mechanics in Madrid, Spain in February. Various recent aspects developed at SFI with Professors Murray Gell-Mann and J. Dooyne Farmer, SFI Postdoctoral Fellow Yuzuru Sato, and Stefan Thurner (University of Vienna), and Luis Moyano (Centro Brasileiro de Pesquisas Fisicas), will be presented as well.

FEBRUARY PUBLIC LECTURE

The Santa Fe Institute will present a Public Lecture on Wednesday, February 22, 2006, at 7:00 pm, not 7:30 as previously announced. It will be at the Lencic Performing Arts Center.

The lecture entitled "The 'Hobbit' of Flores Island: Body and Soul" will be given by Dean Falk, Hale G. Smith Professor and Chair, Anthropology, Florida State University.

February 2006

Scientists were shocked at the recent discovery of a miniature human species (LB 1, Homo floresiensis) who lived a mere 18,000 years ago on the Indonesian island of Flores. The most complete specimen is a three-foot tall woman, nicknamed Hobbit, who had long arms, and a little ape-sized braincase. Associated archaeological evidence suggests that this tiny species fashioned sophisticated tools, hunted miniature elephants, made fire, and cooked. How could this be, given their tiny brains? To glean details about its brain, an international team analyzed three-dimensional computed tomographic (3DCT) reconstructions of Hobbit's internal braincase. Their findings have startling implications for the evolution of the brain and intelligence not just in hobbits, but throughout the human fossil record.

This lecture is co-sponsored with the School of American Research.

PAPER TO APPEAR IN NATURE

Jessica Flack, Michelle Girvan (SFI Postdoctoral Fellows), Frans de Waal (Professor, Emory University), and David Krakauer's (Professor, SFI) paper entitled "Policing Stabilizes Social Niche Construction in Primates," has been accepted for publication in Nature. It will appear on Thursday, January 26, 2006.
